SUBJECT: Western Caucus in the House of Representatives

In addition to individual Member offices and Congressional Committees, like-minded Members of Congress can band together and form a Caucus to promote whatever issue it wishes. These caucuses have staff and office space within the Congressional office complexes.

The Western Water Caucus, under the Chairmanship of Representative Steve Pearce of New Mexico, just organized itself for the 113 Congress. This is a group of House Members, all Republicans by our count, who are focused on emerging policy issues for the West. This includes issues such as expansion of the Clean Water Act, reform of the Endangered Species Act, and other issues that are of interest to the WESTCAS membership.

Here is the current membership of the Western Water Caucus presented in alphabetical order. You may want to be in touch with one or more of these Members in your capacity as a supporter of WESTCAS.
