Who is WESTCAS?

Protecting the Area's Water and Environment

The Arid West has a unique ecosystem. Many months have no rain, and annual precipitation often is less than 12 inches. Consequently, it is essential to protect both the quantity and quality of water supplies. To this end, in 1992 the area's water and wastewater providers joined together to share their talents and resources, assuming the name Western Coalition of Arid States or WESTCAS. A grassroots organization, WESTCAS is dedicated to encouraging the development of water programs and regulations which assure adequate supplies of high quality water for those living in the arid regions while protecting the environment.

What does WESTCAS offer?

WESTCAS provides members with a powerful presence in Washington, D.C. and in regional and state regulatory and legislative decision-making; an effective vehicle for information exchange through meetings and publications; the opportunity to help draft federal, regional, state, and local legislation and regulations about water quality and supply.

Who should belong to WESTCAS?

Water and wastewater service providers, including cities and towns, water and irrigation districts, wastewater agencies, Native American nations, and others concerned with management of issues related to water and wastewater supply, such as attorneys, engineering firms, and consulting firms.

WESTCAS 2011 FALL CONFERENCE

Join us for the Annual Conference
October 26-28, 2011 at the

Crowne Plaza Phoenix Airport Hotel in Phoenix, Arizona

"Fire and Water – Impacts on Western Water Quality" is the theme of the WESTCAS 2011 Fall Conference to be held at the Crowne Plaza Phoenix Airport Hotel from October 26 – 28, 2011. The Conference program will feature multi-faceted sessions focusing on wild fire impacts on water quality and watersheds, stormwater regulations, emerging contaminants, water reuse, regulatory and legislative initiatives, and infrastructure funding.
